Captain Ketch completes coastal cycle challenge

Famous friend of charity is honoured

A FAMOUS patron for a Sutton-Scotney children's hospice has been handed a national charity award.

Newsreader Alastair Stewart OBE played a huge role in Naomi House and Jacksplace's Caterpillar Appeal to help raise £4million to fully refurbish and transform the centres.

Alastair was on hand to unveil the state-of-the-art new facility last September, which included the creation of a new 'butterfly' bereavement suite for families, and a new hydrotherapy pool.

And after helping the hospice to achieve its fundraising target, the 64-yearold was named Celebrity Charity Champion 2016 at the Third Sector Awards in London, held last Wednesday night.

Naomi House and Jacksplace marketing manager Keith Wilson said: "I've never met anyone quite like Alastair.

"His passion and enthusiasm for Naomi House and Jacksplace knows no bounds, and we know that if we ever need his help we need only pick up the phone.

"He really has gone above and beyond that which is expected of a charity patron, and we are delighted he has been recognised as 2016's

Celebrity Charity Champion." Alastair added: "I am thrilled beyond belief.

"It was an honour to be there to wave the flag for Naomi House and Jacksplace."

MP calls for reaction to abuse report

MARIA Miller has called on the Government to "listen and act" after a report on domestic abuse was released.

The Basingstoke MP was speaking during a House of Commons debate last week on domestic abuse victims in law courts.

Findings from the Women's Aid Nineteen Child Homicides report revealed how the killings of 19 children by abusers had been made possible through unsafe child contact arrangements.

The report also recommended that further deaths could be avoided by putting children first in family courts and providing urgent implementation of existing laws.

And speaking in Parliament last Thursday, Mrs Miller called for assurances to be made that special measures would be routinely available in family court proceedings.

She said: "It is clear that family courts are regularly not protecting women and children in the way that we all want them to, and the way that the Government want them to. We need an end to the cross-examination of survivors of domestic violence by their alleged abusers."

Entry deadline closing in for half marathon

ANYONE wanting to take part in this year's Basingstoke Half Marathon just has until Wednesday to register online.

Around 1,300 people took on the challenge for last year's event, with runners snaking through Cliddesden, Broadmere and Ellisfield during the 13.1-mile run.

And residents will follow the same route again for the sixth annual half marathon - starting and finishing at Hackwood Road, next to War Memorial Park, on Sunday, October 2.

Last minute entrants will be able to sign up on the day for £40 in cash, although organisers Destination Basingstoke are hoping residents will get their names down before that.

Race director Felicity Edwards said: "We are very excited to hold the half marathon again.

"Each year we welcome back many loval runners, and many from far afield, as word about the race's great reputation and atmosphere spreads.

"With support from right across the community - runners, businesses, charities and residents - we really hope that everyone will come out and cheer on the runners."

Registration for the run can be secured for £33 at basingstokehalfmarathon.com.

Safety advice for freshers

FIRST year students at Basingstoke College of Technology (BCoT) were handed USB sticks to help them stay safe online this week.

Members of the Hampshire Youth Commission gave youngsters the free devices containing advice on how to stay out of danger online during the college's 'Freshers' Fayre' for new students yesterday.

The handout was organised by children's charity NSPCC, with the sticks being loaded with hyperlinks to advice about bullying, cyberbullying, sexting, and revenge porn.

Head of child online safety. Julia Fossi, said: "We know online safety is a major concern for children and young people, not just parents, because that is what they tell us.

"In a world where an increasing amount of our time is spent online, it is only right that people of all ages learn more about keeping safe on the web."

The Youth Commission, which is run by Hampshire's police and crime commissioner (PCC), got involved as part of its internet safety campaign Go FISH (Find Internet Safety Help).

Commissioner Michael Lane said: "Alongside the meaningful benefits, the use of technology comes with some risks, including risks of inappropriate behaviours."

Touching tribute

TADLEY: Tributes have been paid following the death of one of Tadley's representatives on the borough council.

Councillor for Tadley South Rob Musson sadly passed away on Wednesday, September 7 at the age of 63.

The granddad of nine was first elected to represent the ward in 2007, with council leader Clive Sanders praising his "unique ability" as a councillor.

He said: "Rob was a very well regarded councillor in the borough, not only dedicated to serving the Tadley South community he represented but also by devoting time to support other organisations.

"But most of all he was just a good person to have around who contributed so much."

Theft warning

BASINGSTOKE: Police have issued advice to Basingstoke residents to help stop bike thieves.

There has been a rise in bike thefts across the Basingstoke area over the last week, with two reported incidents in Oakley last Tuesday alone.

In a bid to curb the trend, Hampshire Constabulary has urged riders to always lock their bike through the frame to a bike rack when leaving it in a public place, and park it in a well-lit busy area covered by CCTV.

Police have also advised residents to register their bike for free at immobilise.com, to help them reunite stolen property with its rightful owner.

He was also on site for the 1997 Ladbroke Grove train crash that killed 31 people, checking whether the trackside cables still worked.

Concerns have been raised that the development would see more traffic pass through Hatch Warren, to go on top of the high number of lorry trips along Woodbury Road to the anaerobic digestion plant in Kennel Farm.

By being part of this wider network of over 100 businesses and local authorities, Hampshire will have access to funding to launch initiatives to prevent food waste.

The council's 'Smart Living' campaign has already contributed to a reduction of 7,600 tonnes of overall household waste in the last year, with member for economy and transport, Cllr Rob Humby, looking to increase this figure.

He said: "The shocking facts are that, for every two tonnes we eat, another tonne is wasted.

"We fully support this new commitment and we are keen to work with other organisations to reduce waste in the food chain."

Notts knocks

OVERTON: Residents have been urged by police not to buy household products on their doorsteps from a notorious group.

A group of salesman selling products from an employer based in Nottingham, known as the "Nottingham Knockers', are understood to have been visiting houses in Overton.

The doorstep traders claim to be ex-convicts attempting to mend their ways through a rehabilitation scheme, but police have assured residents that this is not the case.

PCSO Emma Page said: *Please do not buy or sell on the doorstep, and warn your neighbours, particularly elderly or vulnerable neighbours, not to open the door to strangers."

Mill mischief

WHITCHURCH: A triggered alarm helped stop the 200-year-old Whitchurch Silk Mill from being burgled last Monday.

Thieves managed to gain access to the historic mill, after prying open its outer doors, before then managing to enter the main mill.

The incident took place some time between 12.05am and 12.35am, with the offenders then fleeing empty handed after triggering the alarm.

Start-up firm finds success in raising funds

A BASINGSTOKE startup business has raised an impressive six-figure investment in just over a year.

Small-scale networks cybersecurity specialists RazorSecure joined university business incubator SETsquared at its hub in Basing View in March last year.

A total of £150,000 of funding has been contributed to the start-up from lead investors Breed Reply, and the Enterprise M3 LEP since taking part in the partnership's entrepreneurship programme.

The Basingstoke-based programme is supported by the borough council, as part of a partnership between the universities of Bath, Bristol, Exeter, Southampton, and Surrey, and covers all of the essential elements of starting a business.

Simon Bond, innovation director at SETSquared, said: "We're delighted for RazorSecure, but not at all surprised that the potential for this company and its technology have been recognised by investors."

RazorSecure CEO Alex Cowan said: "The support the company has received from SETsquared has been incredible. The investment we've raised will allow us to properly kick off with the next stage of the business."

Fresh take on a classic

PUPPETRY, family fun and imagination - those are the only three ingredients you need when 'The Rattler' on Saturday, September 24.

An adaptation of The Brothers Grimm's famous 1812 story 'Rumpelstiltskin', 'The Rattler' tells the story of Alyson, a young spinner who longs his own ends. of escaping her life of poverty.

"Sharing this process with them was fascinating, and helped us in shaping the final piece. Young people are the most honest audience members out there, so you know instantly whether

Suitable for children aged seven and above, 'The Rattler' was written by Martin Riley, with the music composed by Stephen Deazley. Performed by the Mahogany Opera Group Theatre Company, the show features puppets, which took about a year to make.

After its successful premiere at the Southbank Centre in London last spring, Frederic believes that the children's imagination will take over as they look on the puppets as real people.

The production will also include a number of opera pieces, something that Frederic hopes will intrigue the children, as some of them might not have encountered it before.

"It's not opera in the way people might instinctively think," he said.

"'The Rattler' is full of lively, energetic and folksy music, and plenty of opportunities to join in.

"We've created the show specifically for children, and young people have helped us put the piece together.

"Audience members have told us that they've been humming the tunes from the show all the way home.

Tickets for the 90-minute show cost £10 and it will start at 3pm.

Derren set to show a different side

FOR years, the UK has been stunned by some of the tricks by mentalist Derren Brown.

The 45-yearold from Surrey burst on to our TV screens back in 2000 with his show 'Derren Brown: Mind Control', where his mind reading and hypnotising skills caught the eve.

But when he appears at The Anvil in Basingstoke on Sunday, September 25, with his 'No Tricks: An Evening with Derren Brown' show, the audience at the Churchill Way venue will hear the illusionist talk about his new book, 'Happy'.

Derren said: "The notions of positive thinking and goal-setting have always sat uncomfortably with me and, I'm convinced, lead more often to anxiety than happiness.

"There may not be an easy secret to happiness, but there are effective ways we can approach it indirectly, or even, perhaps, deciding it's not all it's cracked up to be."

The show starts at 7.30pm.

Tyneside group Lindisfarne exploded onto the UK music scene in 1970 with a string of unforgettable songs. The likes of Lady Eleanor, Meet Me on the Corner, Fog on the Tyne and Run For Home quickly established the band as the standard-bearers for acousticbased rock.

In this entertaining show, former members Billy Mitchell and Ray Laidlaw tell The Lindisfarne Story from the very beginning. Hear them perform acoustic versions of the band's classic songs, and relive moments from the band's history as they share behind the scenes stories illustrated with archive video and stills.

No frills but eco-friendly Mitsubishi Mirage proves to be an efficient family runaround

Little 'cutie' was fun to drive

I MAY have said this before, but I am By Anthony Yates not much of a fan of Eco cars.

off the little Mitsubishi Mirage and, to be honest, from then on I was forced to eat humble pie - well, one tiny corner of it anyway.

The little Mirage is a bit of a cutie really - no frills, of course, but who cares. This is a car for getting about in and, as I found out that week, it did a pretty good job of ferrying my family around with ease.

Interior & technology:

Powered by a three-cylinder DOHC 12 Valve MIVEC engine with 79bhp and 0-62 time of about ... well, let's just say it will get to 60mph at some point, but as it's what I would describe as an Eco car, I will scratch over the times.

Fuel efficiency is great at 55.4mpg urban.

The engine is also a very free revving three cylinder that feels quite nippy around town - that's due to the cars low weight but also thanks to those

However, last week, I was dropped tiny cute wheels which also make the job of parking an easy one.

On the road:

The little Mirage is actually OK remember it's not a £30,000 car so don't expect to find a trick diff or a flappy-paddle gearbox. What you do get though is a car that will get you and your family from one place to another in decent style with minimal fuss and using less fuel than my lawnmower.

One thing I will say, however, is how much I loved driving it - and that's the important bit here I suppose.

Look at it this way, if a car makes you feel happy when you are driving it, then the manufacturer has at least got one part of the design right.

Design & technology

Inside the seats are very good for a car costing just over £10,000. The dash is also made out of a decent material and all the switches feel well made. Rear leg room is a little tight though, but then what small car does not have the same issue when it comes to rear space.

There are so many cars I could name that would need you to attend the IKEA design centre in Almhult, Sweden, to learn the art of being flatpacked before you can sit in the back.

The Mirage Juro model specification also comes with many standard features such as ABS with EBD, active stability & traction control, TPMS (tyre pressure monitoring system), headlamps, Bi-Xenon HID, DAB digital radio, Bluetooth with music streaming, air conditioning, climate control and cruise control.

To sum up: I loved the little Mirage, it was fun to drive and costs very little to run. Your first year's car tax is also free and your insurance premiums will be peanuts for most people with a few years of no claims discount under their belt.

Price: (from) £10,999.

Turner exits

ICE HOCKEY: One of Basingstoke Bison's summer recruits has left the club - less than two months after joining.

The Stampede confirmed last week that defenceman Lewis Turner would be stepping back from playing because of work commitments.

Turner arrived at Planet Ice from Bracknell Bees in July, and featured in the club's preseason challenge matches, as well as both of their opening fixtures in the English Premier League.

Danson departs

HOCKEY: Odiham hockey star Alex Danson has joined several of her Team GB teammates in moving to play in the Dutch league.

The Olympic champion, who finished top scorer in Rio with five goals, had not played for Reading Hockey Club for two years, due to her commitments to the international team.

Fellow gold medallists Kate and Helen Richardson-Walsh have left the club for Holland, with Danson moving to Investec Women's League side Clifton Robinsons.

Away defeat

FOOTBALL: Basingstoke Town Ladies were beaten 2-1 by Maidenhead in the Women's Premier League on Wednesday night last week.

Lindsey Beverley scored her side's goal at York Road in their second defeat of the season.

Rose's records

GOLF: North Hampshire golfer Justin Rose was one of 26 sports stars to have their medical files made public by hackers on Monday.

There is no suggestion that the Olympic gold medallist, or any of the others included in the hack by Russian hackers Fancy Bears, have done anything wrong.

The records mostly detail the use of therapeutic use exemptions, which allow for otherwise banned substances to be taken because of medical needs.
